MESSAGE

It is highly encouraging to learn about the 11th National Conference of Indian Association of Clinical Cardiologists (IACCCON 2022) being held at Vadodara. The scientific sessions on preventive cardiology in the conference are especially relevant.

For a successful life, one must listen to one's heart. And for a healthy heart, one must listen to a cardiologist. Yours is a profession that is highly respected because it takes care of one of the most crucial factors of a healthy life.

The fast-pace of the modern world has led to a rise in lifestyle-related diseases and ailments. During the last decade, in particular, there has been a substantial rise in the incidence of cardiovascular and heart diseases. Cardiologists are no more just specialists who deal with problems of the heart, but are also becoming lifestyle mentors.

Holistic healthcare with a focus on prevention is a top priority for our government. A number of our measures such as the popularisation of Yoga, emphasis on fitness through the Fit India movement, raising awareness about stress and mental health, and ensuring better nutrition for people are aimed at boosting wellness. These steps have been taken even as a number of initiatives such as Ayushman Bharat and the rapid expansion of healthcare infrastructure are making an impact. I am sure my cardiologist friends understand the benefits of this two-pronged approach.

The gathering of experts and professionals at the IACCCON 2022 will engage in vibrant, interactive discussions and sharing of experiences to visualise the way forward to treat and prevent ailments of the heart. I am positive that the outcome of the sessions will be immensely helpful for the common people.

The Amrit Kaal is an opportunity to work collectively towards realising our vision of building a developed India and one of its key elements is a healthy populace. Let us work collectively to build a Swasth Bharat. Best wishes for the success of this conference.

(Narendra Modi)
